If you are a polling place voter, your polling location will be listed on the back side of your voter information guide, you must bring your ballot (all cards/pages) and your return envelope to your polling place on Election Day to exchange in order to receive a polling place ballot. If you are not able to surrender your entire ballot, you will be delayed and may have to vote a provisional ballot and complete the associated forms. If you go to the wrong polling place, your name won't be on the roster; poll workers will be unable to determine your eligibility; and you will have to vote a provisional ballot (which may not have all the races you are eligible to cast a vote for) and complete the associated provisional forms.
